Hi, I'm Katharina!

I lead teams, find patterns in operational chaos, and build processes that hold up when things get hectic.

For over ten years I've worked where customer experience, support, processes, and digital products intersect. I've led international remote teams, coached people, steered quality and performance, built knowledge structures, and translated recurring customer problems into concrete improvements for product and operations.

I'm at my best in technical product worlds where good support needs more than friendly answers. Clear processes, reliable data, solid documentation, and close collaboration with product and engineering are as crucial as a team that knows what they're doing and why.

Experience in HealthTech/MedTech, digital health products, automation, and hands-on work with Intercom Fin during the rollout of AI-powered support processes at Playrix. Fluent in German and English, comfortable with international remote teams for many years.

After hours

Strong, curious, mostly caffeinated.

Outside of work I'm a Masters weightlifter and have been coaching for many years. From figure skating through functional fitness to Olympic weightlifting, I've trained kids and adults, taught technique, and learned that good coaching rarely means saying the same thing to everyone.
